J. C. FOWLER,
FOR THE PROPRIETOR.

For other Locals see Third Page.

Did you know of the rarest quality, fresh from Louisville, for sale at J. H. Winst's?

Compton's Surprise.—Messrs. W. B. Kelly & Co., of Abingdon, have presented us with specimens of the new and wonderful potato, advertised for sale by them. By the way, we have seen them in trenches planted in coal ashes, adding straw manure, and covering the whole with earth.

Next fall we will tell our brother Grangers how about the yield thereof.

Beautiful Roses.—Messrs. W. B. Kelly & Co., have on sale near the depot at Abingdon, a fine collection of potted roses, and will soon have them on sale at the Book Store in this town.

Tribute of Respect.

At a meeting of Shelby Lodge, No. 152, of Free and Accepted Masons, held in their Lodge Room, March 15th, 1874, the undersigned were appointed a Committee to prepare Resolutions, expressive of the sense of the Lodge at the loss, by death, of Brother N. A. Callahan, and, in compliance with their duty, the Committee submit the following:

WHEREAS, It has pleased an All-wise Providence to remove from time to eternity—from the Lodge territorial to the Grand Lodge celestial—our much esteemed Brother N. A. Callahan, whose death occurred on the 14th inst., therefore be it Resolved, That we have heard with heartfelt sorrow of the death of our Brother and friend N. A. Callahan, who has been suddenly struck down in the meridian of life, and at a time when, how humble submission to the decrees of an all-wise and merciful Providence.

LETTER FROM SCOTT.

Navigating the Clinch—Outward bound boats for Chattanooga—A Man of 220 lbs. Overboard, but floating like a balloon.

PATTONVILLE, VA., March 23, 1874.

Ed. News:—

Long and patiently have the boatsmen along the banks of the old Clinch River been waiting to get a tide. The rain which commenced on the night of the 18th, and continued until the 20th, raised the river some two feet above good tide. All the boats along the river out loose for Chattanooga on the 20th, and have, so far as we have been able to learn, moved on safely, except the accident to John W. Reynolds in the round of Clinch, near Mrs. Miners. Mr. Reynolds was overtaken in his boat and was run against Mr. Cox's boat, and was thrown overboard, his boat being loaded the heaviest, and ran Mr. Reynolds' boat and ran against it, and knocked it out in the heavy waves and dangerous water of the round.

Mr. B. was washed on by the waves for some distance and escaped losing his life by getting hold of a broken oar, and his boat went through safe without a steersman, and was driven out of the main current by the accident, and he got on board again and moved on. Mr. Alexander Riler who was trying to get on safely, was very badly in the brush near the bank.

ONCE A NEWSBOY—NOW A MEMBER OF THE ENGLISH CABINET.

Mr. William Henry Smith, Director of the newly appointed Parliamentary Secretary of the Treasury, has a peculiar history. Less than twenty-five years ago he was a newsboy in the streets of London, literally on foot in the active industry from 5 o'clock in the morning to 8 at night. He was quick, civil, and intelligent, and soon made himself chief among his class. There was formerly a practice of lending out the Times at a penny an hour from 7 in the morning until 5 in the evening, when the copies were dispatched to country subscribers at half price. Mr. Smith's business in this line grew so rapidly that he had to take a shop near the Strand, and employ a number of assistants. Finally he struck on the idea of purchasing the exclusive right to sell newspapers, magazines, and books at the princely railroad-stations, and the business became so important that publishers found it to their interest to issue "railway editions" of their popular books. At Mr. Smith's suggestion, the publishers found it to their interest to issue "railway editions" of their popular books. At Mr. Smith's suggestion, the publishers found it to their interest to issue "railway editions" of their popular books.

Next fall we will tell our brother Grangers how about the yield thereof.

BRISTOL ENTERPRISES.

Manufactures and Social Trade.

What is Made and What is Sold.

The design of the Bristol News, these exclusive enterprises of our town which are worthy of the confidence and attention of the public.

The Foundry and Machine Shop of Messrs. Dixon, Smith & Co., may be found on Fourth St., near the Tennessee Depot. They make a very fine article of Cast-Iron Hollow Ware, Mill Gearing, Tilt Hammer, Coal Grates for dwellings, a large variety of Plovers, which are stocked in a manner which is not equaled at any other establishment within our knowledge, and a large number of other articles too numerous to mention. The business is superintended by Mr. Dixon, originally from eastern Virginia, but more recently from the West, and is a practical machinist and one of the most competent and skilled workmen we ever saw. Mr. Nelson gives his attention to the building department, and also to the stocking of plover. A twenty horse power engine is employed. No piece of work is allowed to leave the establishment unless tested and believed to be good.

The Sash, Blind and Door Factory of Messrs. Mattox, Lee & Ferguson is on Lee Street and has combined with it which is under the immediate supervision of Mr. G. H. Mattox, who has been successfully at the business for many years, and is well known in the country. Quite a large business is done for distant points, and a very superior article of Furniture is made at prices which are low. The styles are the very newest and best. This branch of the business has been successfully introduced to the public as far East as the New River valley and West to Morristown.

The Sash and Door department is superintended by Mr. John Lee, who is a skilled workman and has already gotten the business upon such a basis that its success has been beyond his own expectation. Sash, Doors, Frames and Floorings are turned out with great rapidity, and in large quantities and are shipped daily to points in S. W. Va., and East Tennessee. A thirty horse power engine is employed. No piece of work is allowed to leave the establishment unless tested and believed to be good.

Which resolution was unanimously adopted, and further resulted that the proceedings of this meeting be published in the Courier-Journal, Commercial Ledger, Mountain Echo, and other papers, and that the committee be authorized to give notice of the same to the General Assembly of Kentucky as above recited.

Resolved, That we wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days, and that the Lodge Room be draped in mourning for the same period, in token of our respect for the deceased.

Resolved, That this tribute of respect be published in the Bristol News and Courier, and copies of the same be furnished to the family of the deceased.

APPLETON'S

AMERICAN CYCLOPEDIA.

New Revised Edition.

Butler rewritten by the ablest writers on every subject. Printed from new type, and illustrated with several thousand engravings and maps.

The work originally published under the title of The New American Cyclopaedia was completed in 1865, since which time the wide circulation which it has attained in all parts of the United States, and the rapid increase in the number of its subscribers, have induced the publishers to undertake a new and revised edition of the work.

Within the last two years the progress of discovery in every department of knowledge has been so rapid, that no work of reference on any subject, which was published in 1865, could be considered as up-to-date. The movement of political affairs has kept pace with the discovery of science, and the rapid application to the industrial and useful arts, and the consequent advancement of social life, have all contributed to render the work of reference on any subject, which was published in 1865, completely obsolete.

The great political revolutions of the last decade, with the national feeling of the late of 1865, have brought into public view a multitude of new subjects, and have given to the work a new and revised edition of the work.

In preparing the present edition of the work, the publishers have been guided by the aim of bringing down the information to the latest possible date, and of presenting a complete and accurate account of the progress of discovery in every department of knowledge, and of the industrial and useful arts, and the consequent advancement of social life, have all contributed to render the work of reference on any subject, which was published in 1865, completely obsolete.
